

COURT SECURITY ACT 1980

Pursuant to section 4B and 4C of the Court Security Act 1980 (Vic) I give the following express written permission:

Recordings of proceedings of the Court which have previously been published with the permission of the Court may be given, transmitted and published by staff of Court Services Victoria for the purposes of producing and publishing the podcast known as "Gertie's Law".

121cast Pty Ltd (trading as Omny Studio) as provider of the hosting service for the podcast produced by Court Services Victoria known as "Gertie's Law" has permission to publish, give and transmit recordings of proceedings included within that podcast.

Each subcontractor and service provider to 121cast Pty Ltd (trading as Omny Studio) who provides services to 121cast Pty Ltd (trading as Omny Studio) in relation to the provision of the hosting service for the podcast produced by Court Services Victoria known as "Gertie's Law" has permission to publish, give and transmit recordings of proceedings included within that podcast.

The operator of any service which includes the distribution of podcasts which accesses the podcast produced by Court Services Victoria known as "Gertie's Law" from 121cast Pty Ltd (trading as Omny Studio) has permission to publish, give and transmit recordings of proceedings included within that podcast.

Where a person publishes an internet link to the podcast produced by Court Services Victoria and known as "Gertie's Law", to the extent that this may constitute publication of the recordings of proceedings contained within that podcast by that person, that person has permission to publish that internet link.

A handwritten signature in black ink, consisting of a long horizontal line with a loop at the end.

The Hon the Chief Justice Anne Ferguson

15 March 2019